If the course you'd like to take has a prerequisite, please indicate how you meet the prerequisite or attach a CV or other documentation that gives this information. If the course has no prerequisite, please briefly tell us about your interest in the course and any other courses or training you've had in psychodynamic theory or treatment approaches. If you prefer, you may attach a CV or other documentation.

Confidentiality: Classroom experiences usually include discussion of case material, and PECC takes its responsibility to protect the confidentiality of clients very seriously. To this end we ask all students to sign the statement below to indicate you understand and agree to it:

Protecting and maintaining client confidentiality is of the utmost importance. If I present case material in class, it will be disguised sufficiently to prevent identification of the client. Case material presented by faculty and other students will be kept in strictest confidence, and I will not share it with anyone outside the class.
